

NORWEGIAN WOOD

Stavanger, Norway

Designed to investigate the use off-site construction and timber technology, Norwegian Wood redefines the possibilities of modular construction using locally sourced materials to form new sustainable communities. The houses and flats are orientated to make best use of local climate in order that passive technologies can be used to provide heating for the community.

Client: City of Stavanger

Date: competition entry 2006

plan showing apartments, individual houses and landscaping interiour view

view from the marina

3d sectional model

overview of the development

